

Biography for Dr. Kari Weston

Dr. Kari Weston has served as a teacher, school administrator, and central office director. As result of her extensive background and training in curriculum and instruction and coaching school improvement, Kari's efforts to successfully lead instruction have been recognized at the local, state and national levels. She received recognition as an Administrator of the Year and a Principal of Excellence during her first two years as a school principal. Under her leadership the extraordinary performance of teachers and students resulted in Title I Distinguished School and Blue Ribbon School decorations presented by the Virginia and United States Departments of Education, respectively. Most recently, Kari directed secondary education in Newport News Public Schools (where all five high schools were named among the best in the nation). She worked as adjunct professor for several universities teaching classes in curriculum and instruction and school leadership. Currently, she serves as the Executive Director of Innovation and Development. Kari also works for and consults with professional organizations, school districts, universities, and state departments of education throughout North America.
